Small Group Questions

1. This morning's "Case Law" dealt with people who genuinely wished to pursue devotion to God but were prevented by an unusual circumstance. Is this possible in our day? What sorts of things are valid "excuses?" What sorts of things are not?
2. God deserves lives ordered around Him. The Law of Moses legislated much of this. How should this look in our churches and homes these days?
3. God has passed over our sin. How may we pass over others' sin against us in a way consistent with His work for our good?
